

RICHARDSON'S RAKE

GATHERING UP FEDERAL STRAWS.

Gardening Comprising With the Intelligent Daily—A Clean Sweep of Democratic Officers—Holden—Georgia's Railroads—Hicks' Wandering Hops.

Special Correspondence.

Washington, March 21.—There is to be a conference between the administration and the negro. The demand for equal recognition with that accorded to white republicans will not be made, but in every southern state a few leading negroes will be appointed to offices. This will appear to the mass of colored voters as recognition of their right to office. It will impress the leaders and induce them to pacify all dissatisfaction as far as they can. It is the best that could be done for the negro, and he seems satisfied with it.

Bruce, of Mississippi, will have some good department posts here or his pick of the places in his own state. Pinchbeck, of Louisiana, is named for a prominent position. Rainey, of the same state, has already been put to rest in the revenue service. Two or three leading North Carolina negroes are on the programme. Witherspoon in Florida and the colored ex congressmen in Alabama will not be given in.

In Georgia, Hodges, a young man recommended by the state representative, will have a desirable appointment. Madison Davis, of Athens, one of the most influential spirits among the Georgia negroes, is also a favorite. Both the DeSauvoys are already provided for and will be retained where they are or promoted. One of them holds a good place in the state government, but has his eyes fixed on the postoffice of that city. Old Tunis Campbell, who sat side by side with Alpheus Bradley in the Georgia senate, is snugly fixed in a departmental clerkship.

I learn that there has been much fair talk to the negroes who are here as representatives of their race. Once more they are asked to take sweet promises, with a minimum supply of patronage, as the reward of their services to the party in power.

The fact that a clean sweep is to be made of democratic office holders in the capitol and the fact that there are very few departments among all the thousands of department clerks suggest a strange condition. It is evident that the negroes are specially divided between Garfield and Hancock. But in the south the vote was so light that it is evident Hancock was the choice of at least one hundred thousand more voters than his successful rival. As he is the only man who represents the party of the people, but absolutely ruled out of the government's patronage.

It is evident that Mr. Hill is laudable.

In endeavoring to show that he was elected to the convention of 1861 as a union man he failed, but succeeded in getting the trial to the extreme section of Malone. They bitterly denounce Mr. Hill, but according to their own arguments he is a traitor now. Mr. Mahon is a traitor now, a traitor to the south. Mr. Hill in 1861 was a traitor to the north. Such a defense must be staggering to the honest southerner.

The Hon. R. L. McWhorter, of the Georgia legislature, seems to be one of the best men in the state. He is a good man to have as his nephew, W. H. Whorler, appears to be in the collection of the second class, though he is a man who is also quietly making his plans to keep office under the present power. This little war has a literature of remarkable interest.

The Hon. C. C. Clay, sent out two hundreds of circulars and have written up reams of paper, but that is their effort have produced.

Georgia has 2,924 miles of railroad with a capital stock of $1,262,239 and a funded debt of $1,000,000. The capital of the southern states in railroad importance and the tenth in the union. Next to the north, the states, with 8,844 miles, Ohio second, with 6,765 miles, and the United States there are 84,713 miles of railway or enough to go around the world three times, and then straight across the continent to the Pacific.

The value of this property is (incomprehensible sum of $3,179,955,917 while railroads in the north cost $1,000,000,000. Georgia's railroads cost $597,900, with all their equipments, and last year earned $1,000,000.

That night there was an elegant reception at the white house. Invitations were issued in many ways. They were sent in the name of the vice president. Mr. Garfield will entertain better than did Mrs. Hayes, who shared her husband's popularity with the public. The meeting was also quietly making his plans to keep office under the present power. This little war has a literature of remarkable interest.

Alexander H. Stephens said to Mrs. Hardwick: "The democrats have bungled through this campaign, and had acted like savages. I am sorry to see the finishing stroke. I regret his conduct; it was very injudicious. What would you say?"

She is a plain manly woman whose face expresses good common sense.

Clayton, of Greenbush, will keep his connection at Calais. Mr. Stephens and other members of the family are in New York, in his favor. Mr. Locke, of Columbus, the most prominent applicant for the position, has strong recommendations, but a change is to be expected.

For Mr. Hilliard's ministerial gown, there are many applications. The place is a small town, but the minister receives full of delight and the minister receives $12,000 a year. No minister will fill the place with such grace as Mr. Hilliard. He has given perfect satisfaction. F. H. R.

MARINE Miser.

CHICAGO, March 21.—The tag O. B. Green, which was sent to the marine miser, was returned about four miles off the shore. All attempts to rescue her by other tugs had to be given up. She is a small boat, with a small boat over her over the ice dragging a small boat in which she was lost. The boat was in the making fair progress but just before nightfall a small boat was lost. Much sickness exists in the crew.

O. B. Green, who was caught and impounded in an ice field during the storm of last night, was released this morning and arrived there safely at noon to day. Bilkhamer, the skipper, who had been impounded, is full of delight and the minister receives $12,000 a year. No minister will fill the place with such grace as Mr. Hilliard. He has given perfect satisfaction. F. H. R.

THE SPRING DIVORCE SUIT.

NEW YORK, March 21.—Judge Winchester, of New York, senior counsel of Miss Sprague, has filed a bill of divorce against his wife, after a separation of four months. She is still in the city.

The vice president announced the appearance of Thomas F. Bayard as a defendant in the case.

FATHER RYAN is lecturing throughout central Mississippi.

The State Montgomery, Ala., has received 300,000 bales of cotton.

The Southern Baptist convention meets in Columbia, Miss., in May next.

The Rev. Dr. McDonald, a prominent ardent. He is drawing scenes in his native country.

McDONALD's new opera house in Atlanta, Ga., will be ready to receive the public in April.

THE SENATE.

The vice president announced the appearance of Thomas F. Bayard as a defendant in the case.

The Legislature is going to the quick decision of the case.

THE LITTLE TEMPEST

THAT DISTURBS OUR RAILROAD MEN.

Prominent Citizens and Merchants of Atlanta
Opposed to the Lease of the Georgia
by the Central—The Whole Question Discussed at Length.

Augusta Chronicle.

There is a settled inclination on the part of prominent directors and influential stockholders of the Georgia railroad, to favor the proposed lease by the Central. Conditions are being formulated, and the monthly meeting of the directors in April may show just how favorably Mr. Wadley's offer is received.

As stockholders in the city, however, and Americans generally, the lease is looked upon in a distrustful way.

Comparatively few, outside of those feeling interested, have given the subject much thought; although most of our merchants are prompt in reaching the conclusion that the lease is a good thing.

On the other hand, there are some who, on second thought, do not view the matter in an apprehensive light, and who do not exactly see how it can be to the interest of the Central railroad to injure this city.

A few railroad men mentioned the fact that several prominent merchants yesterday first meeting on Cotton town.

General Stovall unostentatiously pronounced his regret at any such lease. He thought it would put Augusta down, in the new combination, as a secondary place—a way station—and that the business of the leased road would be taken away from the Central.

Some stockholders, however, were more willing to have their road leased than to have it sold.

Colonel Cole was fully seconded by his board of directors, in trying to form some arrangement among the roads, which he was fully supported by his board of directors.

The management of the Georgia road expressed themselves as friendly to Colonel Cole, and were anxious to have him remain.

Colonel Cole came south in his railroad looking for a place to keep his seat, and at that time Colonel Cole was master of the situation at St. Louis, and Port Royal was his next choice. He had a hard time of it.

At the present time, General Alexander is looking over the Georgia road, showing great interest in it.

Colonel Cole has been disappointed.

Said a well known railroad stockholder to me: "I am sorry to say that we reproduce his words from print:

"Some stockholders, however, are more willing to have their road leased than to have it sold."

Colonel Cole and his friends are not yet willing to have his western road leased.

Finally, however, Colonel Cole is nothing but a great transcontinental, north and southeastern combination was formed, and the Central railroad was passed into one hand.

Colonel Cole and his administration will be swallows up in the overshadowing interest below.

At present freight rates are being paid by the Georgia railroad.

It is to be hoped that the Central will be able to move western or northern stuff, or we could turn a wheel up here.

"Grant that the railroad company," continued General Stovall, "could prevent any discrimination against Augusta and in favor of Savannah, are there not hundreds of ways that the Central railroad management could thieve their influence for their end of the line?" What would their guarantee amount to?

"We will find after the lease is perfected, and it is to be hoped that the business of the leased road will be removed to Savannah.
